"Randy Ellefson is a remarkable guitar virtuoso." – Brave Words and Bloody Knuckles.

Randy Ellefson has released his third instrumental guitar album, Serenade of Strings, an all-acoustic CD with Ellefson performing all guitars, bass, and percussion, and Jeff Moos returning on drums. Included is a rare performance of Randy Rhoads' "Dee". The disc was released on the same day as his fourth disc, The Lost Art, a collection of classical guitar pieces recorded in 1995 before he lost his classical guitar playing forever.

A stylistic departure from the hard rock of his first two albums, Serenade of Strings is a triumph of determination. Half of the album's songs were written prior to Ellefson losing his guitar playing to tendonitis for five years, starting in 1996, after finishing his Bachelors of Music in classical guitar. More than a decade passed before he resumed acoustic guitar and wrote the new songs to finish the album, recorded in 2009.

Ellefson has endorsements with Alvarez Guitars, Peavey, and Morley Pedals, and has been heard on XM Radio Unsigned 52 and stations in Canada, Australia, and the U.S. Ellefson performs locally in the Mid-Atlantic, was invited to perform in the local All-Star Jam, and has published articles at top guitar related sites, including Guitar9.com and UltimateGuitar.com.

Randy Ellefson's third album, Serenade of Strings, is available now.
